Mystic Seaport and two major gaming facilities are the destinations of many motorists who travel this 10.4-mile section of I-95 from Greenwich to North Stonington (milepost 101.1 to 111.5).

The road was built with 6 inches of broken stone base, 3 inches of macadam base and 4 inches of HMA on the surface. It was opened to traffic in 1964. Over the years, ConnDOT has performed some routine maintenance and overlaid the road just twice. The first time was in 1989-1990, when it received a 3-inch overlay; the second time was in 2003-2004, when it was milled and overlaid with 3 inches of Superpave. ConnDOT does not expect that any significant reconstruction will be required for several years, although the road now carries five times the traffic it did when originally built.
